In the last few years there has been a rising amount of complaints regarding the seminars of our mother organisations in which mainly young activists from countries all over the world participate. At these seminars occurred some sexualised assaults and LGBTQI*+ hostilities. As a feminist organisation we can not accept that. We want to fight for more activities that improve the situation for women and the queer community on our seminars, until nobody has to experience assualts or discriminatory comments at our events. The focus shoule be on the patriarchal structures in our organisation and the behaviour of each of us. Because the SJ and the IUSY are no exception when it comes to sexism and patriarchal structures and in the past, we missed out the important role of internal anti-sexist education.

We have to raise awareness for the principle of consensus and for homo- and transfphobia as well as a focus on male speaking habits, that tend to take up more space in conversations and make it harder for women and queer comrades to speak up. We want to establish clear guidelines and rules to better the experience for participants of our international seminars.

As a feminist organisation we have to establish the standards we want to see in the world in our organisation and we want to provide safety for participants, that have to face sexism, homo- or transfphobia in their daily lives.

That's why the Iusy Congress comits to:

- Further the networking between our international sister organisations specifically focusing on the feminist and queer perspectives and organisational work. The goal should be to learn from the other organisations as well as strengthening our overlapping positions and demands.
- Organize meetings to work on and share experiences for both male inside our organisation and the reflection meetings.

- Reflection meetings need to take place at any IUSY seminar. They are discussion groups, where participants of any gender can exchange their experiences and develop personal strategies on how to fight the sexist structures we all inherited.

- Women Meetings need to take place at any IUSY seminar and are open for Women, Non-Binary, Inter and Trans Comrades. These meetings aim is to create a safe space and talk about the patriarchal structures in our society.

- To support people affected by homo- and transphobia and not tolerate these incidents. If confronting the responsible person or his/her organisation doesn’t resolve the problem, there has to be consequences and the responsible person has to be excluded from the seminar.
